Liturgical Function

Kyrie and gradual for Vespers (not Mass) on Easter Day and during the following week. Sheppard's Kyrie always appears together with Haec dies and the two pieces are obviously a pair, but they were not sung consecutively in liturgical performance. The Kyrie was followed by psalms with their antiphon; the gradual followed the psalms.

The verse of the gradual varied daily. Easter Day was a principal double feast; the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of Easter Week were lesser doubles. This edition gives the verses for all four days, although whether Sheppard's polyphony would have been sung on all of them, or only on Easter Day, is not known. The remaining days of the octave were simple feasts with ruling of the choir; these are not likely to have been adorned with vocal polyphony.

Editorial Conventions

The nomenclature of the voice-parts follows the Tudor convention.

The original clef, mensuration symbol and first note of each part are shown on the prefatory staves at the start of the Kyrie. Editorial accidentals are placed above the notes concerned.

Ligatures are denoted by the sign $\overline{\quad}$.

Underlay between square brackets is editorial.

Spelling of the text has been modernised.

Plainsong: Antiphonarij ad usum Sarum volumen primum vulgo pars hyemalis nuncupata (Paris, 1519; RSTC 15790), printed by Wolfgang Hopyl for Franz Birckman, ff.217, 217^v (Gradual, Kyrie and verse Confitemini); 223^v, 225^v, 227 (subsequent verses). Copy consulted: Oxford, Christ Church Arch. Inf. Subt.K.1.

In A the Tr is on f.68^v of Add. MS 30480 with the Ct2 on the facing page, f.69, but upside down, implying that in performance the book was laid on a table with the two performers sitting opposite each other. C presents Haec dies before the Kyrie. It has some significant variants in the Kyrie, possibly indicative of an earlier version by Sheppard: see the notes for bars 7–10 and 14–15 below, but note the consecutive fifths in bar 7.

The 1519 antiphonale has a barline before the last word of every verse of the gradual sung during Easter Week except that for Easter Sunday, as if this word were to be sung by the choir in the way that the neuma was at Mass. However, the book gives no explicit direction in this regard and nor do the Sarum Customaries collated in The Use of Sarum, ed. W. H. Frere, 2 vols. (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1898 & 1901), i. That Sheppard did not set any portion of the verse in polyphony indicates that he expected the whole of it to be sung by the soloists.

In the notes below, each reference to a bar or group of bars is separated by an oblique stroke. Within these references multiple readings in the same voice are separated by commas and readings in different voices by semicolons. The order within each entry is: 1) bar number(s); 2) voice(s); 3) source(s); 4) reading of the source. Pitches are in capital letters, preceded by a number where necessary, e.g. ²G = second note G in the bar.
