A Note about the Music

In the Use of Sarum, Sacris solemniis was the hymn at First Vespers on the feast of Corpus Christi and on the octave day of that feast. In churches where the choir was ruled it was also sung at Second Vespers on both days.

It has been doubted whether the ascription of this work to Byrd is correct, but now that he is believed to have been born in 1539/40 rather than c.1543 it is more generally accepted that he could have begun composing before the Latin services of the Use of Sarum were discontinued.

Editorial Conventions

The nomenclature of the voice-parts follows the Tudor convention.

The original clef, staff signature, mensuration symbol and first note of each part are shown on the prefatory staves. Editorial accidentals are placed above the notes concerned.

Ligatures are denoted by the sign

The lost Tenor part has been reconstructed by the editor in small notation.

Errors in the plainsong source have been tacitly corrected.

Notes on the Readings of the Sources

In the notes below, each reference to a bar or group of bars is separated by an oblique stroke and the order within each entry is: 1) bar number; 2) voice(s); 3) reading of the source (with any subsequent bar numbers in brackets). Pitches are in capital letters, preceded by a number where necessary for clarification, e.g. ²B = 2nd note B in the bar. ‘Amb’ = ambiguously underlaid.
